WILL IMPROVE BOSWELL AVENUE

When Trolley Track is Laid Grade of Hill Will be Reduced
Some—Sidewalk to be Filled in and Retaining Wall Built
Above Hickory Street—Engineer Dunham to be Here Today to Locate Poles.

By the plans which were prepared under the direction of Civil Engineer George E. Fitcher for the laying of the trolley tracks for the Boswell avenue extension, it is shown that in addition to gaining the trolley line, the street will be considerably improved at several points.

This begins with the Boswell avenue hill which will have its grade cut down from a foot to a foot and a half when the tracks are laid in the center of the street. The street has such a crown now that the north side is on such a slope, particularly by the side of the park as to be of little use for driving, but the level at which the trolley tracks are to be placed in the center will cut off much of this crown. It has been provided with the Connecticut company that what they take out here in cutting down to the grade called for is to be carried further up Boswell avenue and used for filling at a point on the north side of the street above Hickory street. There will be some ledge struck near the crown of the Boswell avenue hill.

There is also some ledge to be blasted on the south side of the street at a point above Booth street near the Boswell avenue school. Running the track in a center line here brings it up close to the big ledge of rock which must be blasted out to give a full width.

Above Hickory street on the north side of Boswell avenue is a stretch of 300 or 400 feet where the sidewalk is up in the middle of the street now. All about here the place where the sidewalk ought to be is lower than the street, and a retaining wall would have to be built by the city, but the Connecticut company would do the filling in with the rock which they blasted out of the ledges and the dirt secured from cutting down the Boswell avenue hill.

According to what Civil Engineer Fitcher has understood from Superintendent Samuel Anderson of the Connecticut company there have been many citizens who have spoken to the superintendent about the desirability of running the trolley line up Pratt street and all the way to the lake at Mohegan park. The superintendent has expressed himself as favoring this plan and it is considered probable that there will be citizens on hand to advocate it at the hearing tonight before the court of common council.

Engineer Dunham of the Connecticut company is to be here today and Civil Engineer Fitcher will go over the line with him to measure out where the poles will come. The trolley company has made out a pole plan, setting regularly at 100 foot intervals, but the local engineer expects to locate each one definitely and it is quite likely that they will have to be a number of changes made from the regular 100 foot intervals. The poles will be set on both sides of the street.

The switch from the Franklin street line for the Boswell avenue extension is to start just where the Hassam pavement on the east side of the street ends. The new track can thus be put in without disturbing the Hassam pavement, except between the tracks at this point, which was one of the reasons for having the Hassam end there on that side of the street. From Franklin street to Pratt, where the plans call for the new trolley extension to stop is about 3,700 feet, or a little less than three-quarters of a mile.

REVENUE CUTTER SCHOOL

New London Business Men Ask Legislators to Use Their Influence.

The New London Business Men's association has passed a resolution requesting the Connecticut delegation in the national congress, the representative from this district and Senator Frank B. Brandegee, to give their personal influence in support of an effort to repeal the provision contained in the sundry civil bill passed by congress at its last session that "no additional appointments as cadets or cadet engineers shall be made in the revenue cutter service unless authorized by congress hereafter," which would ultimately result in closing the school of instruction located at Fort Trumbull. At the present session of congress an effort is to be made to repeal the provision and as the school of instruction is of benefit to New London and to the state, it was considered fitting that the municipality and the commonwealth should lend all their influence toward the repeal.

GIRL LEFT HOME

WITHOUT PARENTS' CONSENT.

Lois Bowen Came Here from Fitchburg—Taken Sick and Now in Hospital.

Police Captain D. J. Twomey had a telephone message late Thursday night from Lieut. Roy of the Fitchburg, Mass., police force, asking him to locate and arrest as a runaway a girl Lois Bowen, 17. The message stated that her father was at the Fitchburg police station and requested the girl's arrest, as she had left home without the consent of her parents.

It was stated that she would probably be found at 18 Union street, where she had a half brother, Ernest H. Bowen.

Sergeant Allen C. Matthews was sent there and found Mr. Bowen, the brother, who said that his sister had been taken sick and had been removed that morning to Backus hospital in the ambulance. This information was telephoned back to Fitchburg, and the father said he would come here this morning. It is understood that Miss Bowen is now in the hospital.

AT THE DAVIS.

Vaudeville and Photoplays.

An aerial artist and two comedy and musical acts constitute a programme that gets plenty of applause at the Davis for the latter end of the week. The Davis Johnson produces some thrilling contortion work on the trapeze, which is followed by a clever turn for the second number on the bill when Moore and Towle produce their piano act, in which the comedy star is the male member of the team. Knight Brothers & Sawtelle in a comedy skit, The Fellow With the Green Umbrella, conclude their funny act with a neat little dance that is one of the best things on the entire bill and gets a well earned hand. The pictures are all labeled Davis quality.

Watches Missing and Window Broken.

Report was made to the police on Thursday night from the home of Charles Flint on Chestnut street that a couple of old watches were found missing when the family returned after having been out and also that a window glass was broken and broken out. It is supposed some boys made the break.

Strange to say, too many eye-openers will close a man's eyes.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.

Three excellent vaudeville offerings are included in the excellent bill scheduled for the last three days of the week at the Auditorium, and each number met with a warm reception at the hands of Thursday's audiences. The top-line attraction is "The Bathing Mystery," presented by the Lester trio, and this number is a laugh producer from start to finish. The characters include Mrs. Softly, the mystery, Maude Lester; Vera Softly, the fixer, Doris Lester; O U Kidd, the solver, Al Lester.

Madeline Nash has an entertaining line of songs, a nice voice and a charming appearance, all of which combine to make the best of her presentation to the audience. Harry and Laura Prampkins, play cornet, trombone and saxophone cleverly, and have some pleasing songs as well.

The bill also includes a well selected line of motion pictures.

Thermes Christmas Display.

A cleverly arranged Christmas display is that in one of the show windows of the Boston store, in the form of a miniature Thermes plant corner of handkerchiefs. The building is lighted by electricity, each window emitting a tiny glow. A tower at each end bears a large red Thermes bottle. Behind the factory are the trees and hills and in front the railroad and the river upon which two steamers are seen. Morgan Cronin designed and carried out the attractive display.

Messias in Bridge District.

City Health Officer N. B. Lewis has ordered the Bridge district closed for the balance of the term, which concludes Dec. 20, on account of a case of measles in the first grade. The school will be fumigated during this time.
